Section 3 – Risks and Benefits of Black Belt School

- Black Belt School is physically and mentally more challenging than a standard TaeKwon-Do class. The chance of physical injury, as outlined on the Annual Membership application, is potentially greater than a standard TaeKwon-Do class.
- Students must train with more experienced practitioners – this may at first seem a more intimidating and challenging training environment.
- The Black Belt School requires a greater level of physical fitness and conditioning. Students are expected to instil a greater effort into their training during this class. Do not train if you have an illness. Injuries must be declared to the Instructor at the start of the class. Bring a bottle of water to class. Do not forget sparring equipment.
- Students need a kick shield to be able to train at Black Belt School – please see the Black Belt School Equipment Order form or speak to the Black Belt School Instructor for details on this.
